

curriculum vitae

Ed had been involved in technology and healthcare for the last 10 years, and is fortunate enough in his role to see many different approaches to healthcare and informatics from around the globe. Ed is a keen advocate of the use of technology to improve safety and assist clinicians in delivering more effective healthcare. Ed has been involved in many different health informatics programmes, and has been instrumental to the success of a number of EHR initiatives.