

curriculum vitae

Volker W. Rohleder is a certified I/T Architect at the Technical Marketing Competence Center in Mainz, Germany and a Senior Consultant for Storage Solution and Healthcare related Solutions.

He is responsible for identifying requirements for functional integration within IBM's product portfolio in support of IBM's Healthcare & Green IT related initiative.

He has 27 years of experience providing technical support across a variety of IBM System Storage and virtualization products and technologies, including storage management and emerging technologies. He had various technical positions in both marketing and development.

He is involved throughout the pre-sales and post-sales process, from designing end-to-end solutions. He is now focusing on Healthcare and Green IT related solutions.